Lesson Six: What Does Your Hometown Have?

A: Hi, Bkra shis sgrol ma. How are you doing?
B: Just great, thanks. You?
A: Fine. This is my friend Rin chen. I have to go somewhere for a minute, do you mind staying with him?
B: OK, no worries.
A: OK, thanks.
B: So, where are you from?
C: I come from Khri ka County. How about you?
B: I'm from Henan County. Your hometown is in a farming place, right?
C: Yes, that's right.
B: In your village, do you have any yaks?
C: No, we don't have any yaks. We have some cows, but no yaks. Do you have any cows in your hometown?
B: No, we don't have any cows.
C: I see. Do you have a temple in your village?
B: No. We live spread-out on the grassland. There aren't many buildings. There is a monastery nearby. Is there a monastery in your hometown?
C: Yes, there is a monastery near my village. Is there a school in your village?
B: No, we don't have a school in the village. But, there is a school in the township.
C: Is there a library in the township school?
B: Yes, there is a library in the township school. But there aren't any books in the library.
C: Oh, that's a pity! Our library has lots of books.
B: Do you have any English books?
C: Yes, but we have only a few books. Most of the books are Tibetan. Do you have an English teacher at your school?
B: Yes, there is one English teacher. She is very young. Her English is fantastic.

A: Hi guys. I'm back. What did you talk about?
C: We talked about our hometowns and our schools.
A: I see. Well Rin chen, we should go now.
B: OK, See you later.
A: Bye.
C: See you, OK. Bye!
